

Updated Tech M&A Deals (2021-2025)

Company	Acquired Company	Deal Value	Completion Date	Description
Thoma Bravo	Darktrace	$5.3 billion	October 1, 2024	Thoma Bravo acquired Darktrace, a cybersecurity AI company, to enhance its portfolio in the cybersecurity sector. Darktrace will continue under its existing management team, leveraging Thoma Bravo's resources to expand its market reach and enhance AI-driven cybersecurity solutions.
Synopsys	Ansys	$35 billion	Expected Q1 2025	Synopsys acquired Ansys to combine their chip design tools with Ansys' expertise in larger electronic systems evaluation. This merger aims to address challenges in AI, silicon proliferation, and software-defined systems, creating a leader in silicon-to-systems design solutions.
Capital One	Discover Financial Services	$35.3 billion	Expected Q1 2025	Capital One acquired Discover Financial Services in an all-stock transaction, merging two of America's largest credit card companies. The merger will create the largest credit card issuer in the U.S. by loans, offering cost synergies and enhanced capabilities in the payments market.
AMD	Silo AI	$665 million	Expected H2 2024	AMD bolstered its AI capabilities with the acquisition of Silo AI, Europe's largest private AI lab. This deal brings expertise in scalable, multilingual large language models (LLMs) to AMD's Artificial Intelligence Group, enhancing its presence in the European AI market.
Nvidia	OctoAI	$250 million	September 30, 2024	Nvidia acquired OctoAI, specializing in generative AI tools and cloud platforms. This deal enhances Nvidia's ability to offer enterprise solutions for AI model optimization and deployment, supporting its strategy to build a comprehensive generative AI stack.
Google	Character.AI	$2.7 billion	August 2024	Google orchestrated a reverse acquihire with Character.AI, hiring key talent and securing a non-exclusive license for the company's technology. This strategic move bolsters Google's Gemini initiative and its broader AI projects, providing

Company	Acquired Company	Deal Value	Completion Date	Description
Amazon	Covariant	N/A	August 2024	access to advanced large language model (LLM) technology. Amazon executed a reverse acquihire with robotics AI startup Covariant, bringing key founders and 25% of Covariant's workforce into its fold. The deal secured a non-exclusive license for Covariant's AI models for robotics, enhancing Amazon's capabilities in warehouse automation.
OpenAI	Multi	N/A	June 2024	OpenAI acquired Multi, a startup focused on enterprise-oriented, video-first collaboration tools. The team joined OpenAI's ChatGPT desktop team to enhance the ChatGPT for Mac desktop app, integrating AI-powered collaboration into OpenAI's product lineup.
OpenText	Rocket Software	$2.275 billion	May 1, 2024	OpenText sold its mainframe software and application modernization business to Rocket Software. This deal enables OpenText to reduce its debt and allows Rocket Software to expand its IT modernization services.
EQT	Perficient	$3 billion	N/A	EQT acquired Perficient, a global IT solution provider, in an all-cash deal. This acquisition enhances EQT's digital consulting portfolio.
T-Mobile	UScellular Wireless Operations	$4.4 billion	Expected Mid-2025	T-Mobile acquired UScellular's wireless operations to gain a competitive edge in pricing, transmission speeds, and 5G performance, expanding its customer base.
KKR	VMware's End-User Computing Business	$4 billion	Expected End of 2024	KKR acquired VMware's End User Computing (EUC) business, allowing the EUC division to operate as a stand-alone company focused on digital workspace solutions.
IBM	HashiCorp	$6.4 billion	Expected End of 2024	IBM acquired HashiCorp, the developer of Terraform, to enhance its hybrid cloud capabilities, enabling a more comprehensive hybrid cloud platform.